RUNCIMAN ON WAY TO PRAHA AS MEDIATOR

Will Endeavor to Avert Clash Between Czechs, Sudeten Germans

BRITISH UNITED PRESS, Exclusive Cable to the Edmonton Bulletin.
LONDON, Aug. 2.—Lord Runciman left England on Tuesday for Prague on a mission of mediation which is regarded in political circles as making him "the mediator of peace in Europe". The importance of his visit cannot be exaggerated, since a solution of the German-Czech problem is considered on all sides as the pre-requisite for a wider settlement of European relations.

Scrutator, political expert of the Sunday Times, says "the immediate object of the visit is to avert what is threatened to be a head-on clash between the Czechs and the Germans," referring to Premier Huxley's proposed reforms "under our influence".

France is understood to be still "touching up" the draft proposal, but as soon as this is finished the premier proposes to submit his reforms to parliament and get them passed as soon as possible. What is known of them from the British intelligence would

JAPANESE MAY LOSE CONTROL OF KEY AREAS

Chinese Guerrilla Armies Have Already Reoccupied Many Districts

By LLOYD LEBRAS
Associated Press Foreign Staff
SHANGHAI, Aug. 2.—The Japanese army is threatened with loss of effective control of areas captured since hostilities began July 7, 1937, a survey indicated today.

Continued resistance by the Chinese, ambush and surprise offensives by Chinese Communist and irregular armies, the Russian-Manchukuo border tension, and the need for all available forces in pressing the offensive toward Hankow are the reasons.

Reports from widespread areas show the Chinese already have reoccupied many districts, sometimes without a fight after tactical withdrawals by the Japanese and frequently after the capture of small garrisons.

Reoccupations are scattered, however.

War Veterans Cut Loose Hilariously on Windup Night of Corps Reunion

TORONTO, Aug. 2.—Pity the poor politicians on a night like Monday—and the street car businessmen and the police—when they find out that the night of the corps reunion was having their final fling.

Far into the night the blare of saxophone horns and the shouts and laughter of thousands of merry-makers sounded the dying notes of the reunion. The police, who were slung to keep traffic going on the crowded streets, but it was a high job.

Impromptu bands and barbers' shops sprang up from every corner. Law officers tried hard to look the other way while beer bottles were being tossed about the streets. Restaurants had a hard time keeping their clientele and trays at the same time.

The well known practice of stallion street cars by pulling off the street pole was given with the usual flourish. The electric display was the pole hit the wire and the car was jerked back and forth.

After a night of off-kilter antics, the city was left with a clean conscience. The streets were clean and the city was left with a clean conscience.

Alberta The Envious Exception

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports that deaths due to motor accidents in Canada in 1937 numbered 1,636, against 1,316 in 1936, and 1,224 in 1935. The increase from 1935 to 1936 was 92, while from 1936 to 1937 the increase was 320. Broad conclusions can be drawn from the narrow premises of these figures, but if the fatality rate is going up at any such pace as indicated, it is time traffic authorities and police not to rest on their laurels.

Alberta, it is gratifying to note, was one province in which fewer were killed last year than the year before. Unfortunately it is the only province where such a showing was made. In all the others the figures were the same or there was an increase last year, in some cases a heavy increase. In Alberta there were 55 deaths from motor accidents last year, against 72 in 1936. The record speaks well for Alberta drivers, walkers and officials. Caution on the part of drivers and pedestrians and vigilance on the part of the police can make the 1938 fatality list shorter still.

Mineral Production

Everyone of course knows that mineral production in Canada has been going up rapidly since 1935 and is still holding the pace or even gathering speed. Here are the production figures for the first four months of this year, set over against those for the corresponding months last year. This year's figures are not final, but they are accepted in responsible quarters as being approximately correct. The reader may find the comparison useful in that it brings the idea of vast production increase into definite terms, and makes this a calculable factor in the nation's business.

In The Doldrums

According to the Bureau of Statistics there were only 14,650 more persons employed by reporting firms in Canada at the first of July than there were at the first of June. "Only" is an appropriate word because the seasonal gain is usually more than that. In fact the index figures dropped from 111.9 to 111.3.

The total reported as employed at July 1st was 1,072,123, against 1,134,375 a year ago, a drop of more than 60,000. Nor is there much gratification in noting that the total employed now is greater than at this season in any year, save the year, since 1930. The years from 1930 to 1936 provide a poor standard by which to measure the sufficiency of employment. They were more notable for the numbers who had no work.

The Bureau's figures do not of course reflect the situation in the home industry. They are made up from returns supplied by firms who report voluntarily, and the number of reporting firms may vary from one year to another. But there is no cause to doubt the reports show the trend; and if so the present trend is not marked, and far toward more employment than last year. The number needing employment increases each year as young people come to working age, a time of no increase in employment means necessarily a time when unemployment tends to increase.

The patent fact, unknown as it may be to that while employment is down and the country is undoubtedly better than a couple of years ago, unemployment is still an unsolved problem.

World Anarchy

Japanese and Russian forces rushed again on Sunday at the Manchukuo-Siberia border on a "terrible fight." Each apparently had large bodies of troops in the vicinity and a pitched battle was fought on a limited scale. The two countries are nominally at peace, but the situation is the mountain of north-eastern Spain, Government and insurgent armies were locked over the week-end in a bitter fight, with Italian and German troops and armor participating on one side and foreigners from many countries on the other. Neither faction has been recognized as having belligerent standing.

In Palestine, Arabs launched an attempted "reign of terror" in defiance of British authority—established there by a mandate from the League of Nations.

Along the Yangtze, the Japanese and Chinese armies were struggling, with a million or more men under arms on either side. Japan has not yet declared war on China.

Does the world need a reconstructed, revitalized League of Nations, functioning as a clearing-house of international disputes and an accredited body for the framing of a recognized code of procedure? At present it is a world of disorder, with no international law, wherein any country may run amok and attack another openly or under cover, without attempt at arbitration or the formality of announcing its intention.

The Great War was fondly expected to make the world safe for democracy. It isn't safe for democracy or any other kind of government. It is less safe than the world we knew before the titanic struggle began. Then it was at least the accepted practice that when one country proposed to attack another it should give fair warning to neutrals and allow some opportunity for a legitimate intervention on behalf of peace. For regular warfare there has been substituted the unheralded assassination of states and nations.

Editorial Notes

Churches, theatres, swimming pools have been closed in two villages in Turner Valley and public meetings of all kinds banned, because of an outbreak of "infantile paralysis." Without getting jittery about the disease, in other parts of the province it will do well to take note of the facts and watch for symptoms of the disease.

In widely distant parts of the United States the other day two persons stood on tall buildings and threatened to jump, while police and firemen made attempts to prevent the threatened suicides. Of course they were demented. Going "off balance" may not be more common now than in former times, but there seem to be more ways of showing it.

Abraham said moreover, Oh that I were made judge in the land, that every man which hath evil suit or cause might come unto me, and I would do him justice according to his right.

Justice demands purity, friendship, and kindness. It is therefore represented as blind—Addison.

Several thousand unemployed men in Wales will be given work on new farms at Wren Taw which will convert about 620 tons of coal a day into smokeless fuel, diesel oil, gasoline and other products.

Old Country Letter

By J. E. NORCROSS

LONDON, Eng.—(By Mail).—Following Mr. Chamberlain's Kettering speech and the rift in the lute that developed between him and the farmers, the Labor party, of course, has not neglected the opportunity of so fishing in troubled agricultural waters. It is out with a program. To begin with, it would nationalize the land, buying it at a fair price from its present owners. The nation would then provide plenty of money for drainage, upbuilding of buildings and loans to tenants.

Secondly, Labor would give the farmer a guaranteed price for his produce, and, thirdly, would help him to produce more milk, more eggs, more vegetables and more fruit.

So far as it goes it sounds good, but obviously the program favors some farmers and not others. Moreover, the operative word is "nationalization" and even given the power the Labor party cannot accomplish land nationalization out of hand.

Meanwhile a Labor government would be under considerable pressure to reduce the cost of living which could only be done by reducing the tariffs and abolishing the quotas and embargoes which now keep prices up for the benefit of the farmer.

Labor may capture the agricultural labor vote, but it is not so sure as it seems in view of these, the farmers are likely to prefer the devil they know to the devil they don't.

The General Council of the Trades Union Congress is much concerned over the policy to be adopted with respect to political refugees from Austria and Germany.

No declaration has yet been made and the statement that the T.U.C. would raise no objection to any scheme of admission of skilled foreign labor which might be formulated at the Evian conference is premature.

It is well known, however, that British trade union leaders would be sympathetic to any effective measures which would help the British workers. They insist on proper control, particularly with regard to limitation of numbers and the like, and they are very ready to see the British Labor movement, it is further stated, has been carrying a considerable burden for some time in assisting Socialist and trade unionists who have already been admitted to this country.

While Labor, as represented by the leaders of the Trades Union Congress, is taking a reasonable attitude on the refugee question, the police are showing signs of alarm over a possible influx of Austrians.

The Medical Practitioners' Union is circulating every doctor in the country on the subject of the whole country, and they are very ready to see the British Labor movement, it is further stated, has been carrying a considerable burden for some time in assisting Socialist and trade unionists who have already been admitted to this country.

Further, the union seems to be crying out before it is hurt. During the last five years the number of foreign doctors has been added to the number of home-grown practitioners in Great Britain.

In any event, the British Medical Association states that Austrian doctors before they can acquire British medical degrees before they can start work, unless they are in possession of Italian or Japanese degrees, which would not be the only foreign degrees recognized in this country.

Your Health

By FRANK MCILROY

As a general rule the patient with stomach ulcers finds he has periods when his symptoms are worse, followed by periods of improvement. During the stage when the ulcer is active, the patient complains of a small meal is used, certain characteristics which set it apart from the rest of other causes. In the first place, the patient is somewhat nervous, and is very irritable.

In the second place, the pain is relieved by using an alkali such as milk of magnesia or baking soda, or is relieved by eating. A very definite sequence is observed which can be expressed in this way: pain, food, relief.

This series of events may take place with so marked a regularity that one might almost set a clock by it. Usually the pain is so definite as to location in the stomach, but sometimes it is referred upward to the chest.

As a general rule, the pain is delayed in its coming if a very large meal is taken, and will appear some time after a small meal is used. The ulcer patient quickly learns that certain foods increase his distress and may become quite an expert on the subject of which foods agree or disagree with him. Thus he may learn to avoid raw vegetables, raw fruits, greasy foods, spicy foods, etc. In addition, he may learn that excessive indulgence in coffee or tobacco is followed by increased distress.

Vigorous exercise often increases his discomfort, and even though the patient is somewhat in a very irritable state, he may not be able to indulge in active exercise makes him feel worse.

In the early stages there is not likely to be any bleeding from the ulcer which the patient notices. Later, the ulcer may bleed and when the patient vomits, this old blood may be seen by him, which case it will have the color of coffee grounds.

In addition to the symptoms of pain, vomiting and hemorrhaging, the patient will also experience those symptoms commonly grouped under the heading of indigestion.

The patient's diet should be such as to put a definite strain always has a serious problem on his hands. A quick cure can not be expected and the patient must anticipate a long period of very careful dieting, but he can get pronounced cured. In the mild or average case, some sort of dieting regimen is the treatment generally used.

Find that the exclusive milk diet is the best one, the patient taking warm milk at regular intervals and using enemas to keep the system cleansed. When the patient follows directions to

The western crop is getting by the danger of any major disaster, according to the latest Free Press survey, just published, and the present outlook is for something above 300,000,000 bushels.

In Manitoba, which was not doing so well up to three weeks ago, there has been a great improvement due to more recent rains. This province may not do quite as well, relatively, as any two other provinces, but that Manitoba harvest will be better than was expected.

There are hazards still to be faced and these may considerably affect the final result, but there will be widespread relief and satisfaction that the whole West has come back and is going to garner a fairly good crop.

It will mean a great deal in the way of employment—in the harvest fields, on the railways, in western towns and in eastern factories. It promises to be a good tonic to the whole country, at a time when it could do with one very well—Winnipeg Free Press.

War in China—And Japan

In his outline of the military situation at the end of the first year of the war in China, Edgar Ansel Mower of the Chicago Daily News says first that although Japan has vast areas of "occupied" territory, her objective is still unaltered. Neutral experts seem agreed that China can continue to put up a resistance of at least for months to come, unless Japan can administer one fast and deadly blow.

China, then, according to Mr. Mower, is to "yield" like a jujitsu player in the hope of compelling the adversary to overreach himself on a terrain chosen by the Chinese leaders for the advantage it gives them in the hands of their defenders." Already the extent of occupied territory is proving embarrassing to the invaders. They control it nominally; but they have been unable to consolidate or exploit it. To continue to hold it requires continued extension of the Japanese lines and the utilization of manpower which Japan is unable to spare.

A great many interesting letters received by the Editor of The Bulletin are too long for publication. Our correspondents would do well to study brevity. A limit of 450 words must be insisted on.

Editor: Debuter Autos of the Bulletin there appeared a letter on the unnecessary number of automobiles in the country. The writer of the letter did not claim that there was really too many cars, but that it was necessary for half of the present number, yet the motor factor which was omitted. Would autos be as reckless and impatient if the horse were removed from their cars? It is asked whether they would be more considerate of their own safety. It is a recognized fact that pedestrians have been killed on the streets. But do they? Another instance where the pedestrian is killed is when he is struck by an auto when he is entering from a doorway. At present, the writer of the letter is not sure if it is necessary to have a law on the books which would make it necessary for an auto driver to stop when he is entering from a doorway. ## 'Thirty Dollars Every Thursday' Plan Riding a Mighty Big Wave in California

Planning the Campaign

"Thirty Dollars Every Thursday" is the gospel being successfully preached to a million southern Californians by Sherman J. Bainbridge, shown above in the office of the California Pension Plan, new retirement scheme which threatens to supplant the Townsend Plan in the affections of millions of elderly folk. A recently-broken leg does not stop Bainbridge, for since last October the plan has achieved 150 office employees and an income of perhaps $1000 a week in contributions. Hundreds of thousands of adherents cheer at mass meetings, and hang over radios for frequent broadcasts.

Piling Up 'Ham and Eggs'

"Ham and Eggs for Californians" is the title of the key booklet expounding the new pension plan for retirement at 59 on $30 a week. Hundreds of copies have been distributed for a small price. Attractive young ladies are shown here piling up some 30,000 copies awaiting mailing. A luscious-looking plate of thick ham, golden eggs, French-fried potatoes—and parsley—bedecked the cover and guaranteed enthusiastic reading. A million people have signed petitions to place the new pension plan on the California ballot in November as the new movement continues to grow rapidly.

Counting the 'Offering'

About $30,000 was contributed to the plan last month. Here T. R. Reynolds, treasurer, and Fred R. Lenhart, his assistant, count some of the day's receipts. The plan is simple. Every person over 59 would get each Thursday 30 scrip warrants worth $1 in trade. Each week a two-cent stamp (bought for cash from the state) would have to be affixed to the back of each warrant. At the end of the year $1.04 in cash would have been paid for stamps. One dollar would go to redeem the warrant and four cents to meet administrative expenses. Rapid circulation of the pension money would be thus encouraged.

Reading the 'Gospel'

While eating one plate of ham and eggs, paid for by hard-earned money, it is pleasant to contemplate visions of riches and automatic ham and eggs in the future, and that is what D. H. Bainbridge is doing in the above picture. Bainbridge, a member of the California Pension Plan since its inception, wears a label-button with a bell, his reward for bringing in new members to the organization, whose membership, spurred by frequent mass meetings and a continual radio barrage, is sweeping southern California, drawing many of the same people who have been backing Dr. Townsend's plan.

Prisoner

His wrists bound with cord, Hu Yun-chuan, first brigade commander in the army of Ma Chanshan, sits on the ground at Shanghai after his Japanese captors had taken him there from central China, a valued prize of war. His fate is uncertain.

EAST FEELS FATAL FURY OF TORRENTIAL RAINS

Water-swept Highways Take Toll

Sliding down a steep, water-soaked hill near Hackettstown, N.J., the inter-city bus, seen in the photo above, struck a slight rise at the side of the road with one of her front wheels, then struck a concrete abutment with a rear wheel, and, as a result, turned over on her side, killing one passenger and injuring nine more. This was one of the more serious of thousands of accidents caused by the heavy rains which have played havoc in states along the Atlantic seaboard.

Rampaging Stream Isolates Town

Ordinarily placid, the rivers and streams of Ulster and Sullivan Counties, up in State New York, reached flood-stage under the effects of the torrential rains which have deluged the East for a week, swept away bridges, barns, garages and outbuildings and caused serious vacationists to flee. In the photo above, the waters of Rondout Creek are shown swirling around a wooden bridge they washed down. The flooded creek isolated the village of Sundown, N.Y.

Navy Plane Pelted Down; 3 Dead

The scattered debris seen in the photo above is all that's left of a Navy bomber which crashed in a vegetable patch near New Haven, Conn., during a blinding rain squall in the series of storms which have pelted the East, and carried three Navy fliers to their deaths. Lieut. J. F. McDonough of Boston, William J. Drummer, of Gloucester, Mass., and John R. Poles, of Boston, were en route from Norfolk, Va., to the naval base at Squantum, Mass., when they encountered the storm and crashed.

Belgian Minister to Canada Another Transatlantic Plane—It's "Routine" Now!

Tricky Stunt

Hanni Silvercruz, Belgian minister to Canada, and his sister, Susanne Silvercruz, well known lecturer and soprano, are pictured as they arrived in New York aboard the Ile de France.

The Nordwind, just a few days behind her sister plane the Nordmeer, is greeted by customs officials as she landed at Port Washington, Long Island. In contrast to the reception accorded the Nordmeer, which was the first German replacement to fly transatlantic from the Azores this season, there was no cheering crowd to welcome the Nordwind. Both ships were fired from a catapult aboard a mother ship at Herla, Azores Island. The flights of 2,300 miles from the Azores to New York were survey flights for Deutsche Luftschiffahrt, Germany's principal air line, which is expected to begin regular transatlantic plane service soon.

Won't Starve

Here's Moment Saratoga Lives For
